2015 WHITRAP Asia-Pacific Region Training on HUL
Shanghai, China, 14-17 December 2015

Outline of Training Course on the Historic Urban Landscape (HUL)

Brief Background to the Historic Urban Landscape

On 10 November 2011, UNESCO adopted the Recommendation on the Historic Urban Landscape. It constitutes an updated heritage management approach based on the recognition and identification of a layering and interconnection of values – natural and cultural, tangible and intangible, international as well as local – present in any city. It is also based on the need to integrate the different disciplines for the analysis and planning of the urban conservation process, in order not to separate it from the planning and development of the contemporary city. This new policy instrument is available at www.historicurbanlandscape.com

The HUL approach is aimed at preserving the quality of the human environment, enhancing the productive and sustainable use of urban spaces, while promoting social and functional diversity, and integrating the goals of urban heritage conservation and those of social and economic development. It also provides ideas for and contributes to orientate the planning and design of newly developed urban areas.

In association with the World Heritage Centre, HUL implementation programme of World Heritage Institute of Training and Research for the Asia and the Pacific Region under the auspices of UNESCO (WHITRAP) became the leader on the application of this UNESCO Recommendation in Asia-Pacific Region, as well as other geo-cultural regions of the world. Nowadays the Institute holds 4 pilot cities in China, 6 pilot cities in Asia, 5 pilot cities in other regions and 2 cases studies.

Since October 2012, following an international Expert Meeting that was organized by WHITRAP Shanghai, a 'Road Map' for the application of the HUL approach in China was developed and a HUL implementation programme established. This document identified three main objectives for the implementation of the UNESCO Recommendation on the HUL in China: a. the management of 'change', b. the improvement of living conditions for local populations and communities, and c. the creation of a virtuous cycle in urban conservation.

On December 2014 the International Symposium on HUL brought together implementing agencies and partners, as well as interested professionals from all over the world, to take stock of progress made on HUL implementation in a diverse range of contexts. The result of that meeting was the Shanghai Agenda, which set the actions and strategies for the China Road Map according to the Historic Urban Landscape Action Plan included in UNESCO's General Conference Resolution 36 C/23.

The 2015 WHITRAP Asia-Pacific Region Training on HUL aims to update professionals on the what, why & how of HUL with the latest developments in the field. Furthermore, through this training course, WHITRAP pursuit to strength and enlarge the specialist network for HUL in this area of the world as well as its implementation and its capacity building programme. During four days training programme, practitioners and specialists will participate in lectures, field trip visits and roundtable discussion on HUL approach challenges and impacts in Asia-Pacific Region. All of them will be led by Chinese, Regional and International experts. Among others, Francesco Bandarin (UNESCO Advisor and Former Director of the World Heritage Centre), Susan Fayad (Coordinator Heritage Strategy for the City of Ballarat, Australia), Ken Taylor (University of Canberra) and Giulio Verdini (Director Research Institute of Urbanisation of Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University -XJTLU-) will present the HUL approach and its Took Kit.
